Art therapists are master’s level clinicians who integrate the fields of art and psychology into a specific approach and philosophy towards psychological issues and concerns.

Art therapy is an integrative mental health and human service profession that involves the use of creative process (art-making) to foster healing and growth through applied psychological theory and human experience within a psychotherapeutic relationship.

Edgewood College aims to develop committed professionals who combine art-making and psychological theory to foster well-being in individuals, families, and community.

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

- Small class size and individualized attention
- Integrates theory and application with development of the Art Therapist-artist
- Opportunity to engage in multicultural and global perspectives in art therapy
- Credentialed and practicing faculty
- Curriculum shaped by the Accreditation Council for Art Therapy Education and Commission on Accreditation of Allied Health and Education Programs standards
- Continue your career while pursuing your degree
- Study in our state-of-the-art, LEED-certified visual and performing arts building

We want to hear from you! For a personal consultation about our graduate programs,

Contact Janna Boehm at
608-663-2232
jboehm@edgewood.edu